

Leap Frog's Internet Safety tips!

The Internet can be a great tool for learning, playing games and chatting but it's important to remember a few safety rules to keep it safe too! When chatting with someone, ask yourself this, "Do I really know who this person is?" Someone could tell you they are me but they could be the Big Bad Wolf and without seeing them you'd never know for sure!

Some people on the internet aren't nice and may try to trick you into giving them your personal information. Don't be fooled! NEVER give out information like your name, address, telephone number or even the name of the school you go to without a parent's knowing first.

If someone you are chatting with is making you nervous or uncomfortable, exit the chat room right away and tell your parents or guardian right away.

Never agree to meet someone you've talked to on the internet without your parent's permission.

Don't give your passwords to anyone other than your parents, not even a friend! Remember, some people may try to trick you to get this information.

www.putkidsfirst.org

Be a super safe
surfer!

